Subway Operator at New York City Subway

New York, New York

The New York City Subway has 36 lines and covers 245 miles of tracks. As a Subway Operator, I am responsible for safely transporting thousands of passengers a day. My core activities include:

- Driving trains on both above and below ground tracks
- Observing signals indicating when to stop, start, or slow down speed
- Making clear announcements regarding the subway's stops and track changes
- Opening and closing the doors at scheduled subway stops
- Helping disabled passengers disembark from the subway, when needed
- Reporting delays, weather, and passenger incidences
- Driving the train manually, in case of emergencies

04/2002 – 01/2010
